

CloudTask Billing FAQ

Category: Billing | Version: 1.0 | Document ID: billing_faq

Q1: What payment methods does CloudTask accept?

CloudTask accepts Visa, Mastercard, American Express, and PayPal for all Pro and Business plans. Enterprise customers may also pay via bank transfer with a signed invoice.

Q2: When am I billed?

Monthly plans are billed on the same calendar day each month as your original signup date. Annual plans are billed once per year on the signup anniversary date.

Q3: Why was I charged twice this month?

Duplicate charges are usually caused by a temporary payment gateway retry error. If you see two charges for the same billing period, contact support with your transaction IDs. See the Refund Policy, Section 4, for how duplicate charges are resolved.

Q4: Can I change my billing cycle from monthly to annual?

Yes. You can switch from monthly to annual billing at any time from the Billing tab in Settings. The switch takes effect at the start of your next billing cycle, and you will receive the annual discount (typically 20% off the monthly rate).

Q5: Do prices include tax?

Displayed prices do not include applicable VAT or sales tax. Tax is calculated at checkout based on your billing address and added to the final invoice.

Q6: How do I update my billing information?

Go to Settings > Billing > Payment Method, then select Update Card. Changes take effect immediately for future charges; they do not retroactively affect past invoices.

Q7: Can I get an invoice for my company's accounting records?

Yes. Every charge automatically generates a PDF invoice available under Settings > Billing > Invoice History. You can also add your company's tax ID to appear on future invoices.

Q8: What happens if my payment fails?

If a payment fails, CloudTask retries the charge up to 3 times over 5 days. If all retries fail, the account is downgraded to the Free plan and the user is notified by email.